Architects Maintain They Are Not Responsible For Failure To Build

The Thayer Company, architects, have presented a bill to County Controller R. C. Mc-Caslin for $24,280 for work done in preparing plans for the proposed new court house for Law-rence County.

The bill is in addition to $7,800 which has already been paid the Thayer company, after a fight through the courts.

The Thayer Company itemizes the bill now presented as follows: To architectural services for county court house, jail and sheriff's residence as per second paragraph artle 5, of the contract dated October 25, 1933.

Ninety per cent of second payment of 2.4 per cent of 650,000 estimated cost of building—$14,040.

Re-imbursement for structural gineer of 2 per cent of $97,000, esmated cost of structural work $1,-

Re-imbursement for mechanical engineer of 2 per cent of $90,000, estimated cost of mechanical work completed $1,800.

Liquidated damages of one per cent of $650,000, estimated cost of the building $6,500. Total balance asked $24,280.

Based On Contract As indicated above the bill is based on a contract made by the county authorities with the Thayer Co.

An investigation undertaken by ostensibly separately, but there is international News Service and the too much similarity and timing in that Isidore Fisch, the man from whom Hauptmann claims to have received $13,750 of the Lindbergh ransom money found in Haupt-mann's garage, had absolutely no connection with the kidnaping or Isidore Fisch, in his grave in Leipzig, Germany, since last April, never even met Hauptman until five months after the kidnaping.

And Hauptmann's defense, the story he has rigidly stuck to since his arrest, was blasted too today. Hauptmann has steadfastly main-tained that he first saw the money "two or three months ago" when, noticing that rain water was soaking them, he opened the bags Fisch had left with him and found the bank notes.

In County Field bank notes.
From the lips of Fisch's boyhood and life-long friend, Henry Unlig, it was learned that early in May of this year Hauptmann opened these money nor rain water.

It was from Uhlig, who accompan-

BUSINESS WANTS STATEMENT UPON FUTURE POLICIES

S. Chamber of Commerce today in addressing what amounted to an open letter to the president assert-House Sub - Committee To ing that "there is a general state of apprehension among business men of the country."

This apprehension, the chamber asserted, is due to (1) enormous federal expenditures, increasing taxes, and budget uncertainty; (2) increasing governmental control over private business; (3) increasing governmental competition with private business; (4) increasing strikes and labor disturbances, and (5) public utterances by those "who assume to speak for the administration which destroy confidence in the security of property and investments.'

Questions Asked Such being the case, the directors then proceeded to ask the president to answer six specific questions, to-

"1. When and how is it proposed to balance the federal budget? "2. Is it the intention of the administration further to reduce the value of the dollar; if so, then to what figure?

How Refreshing!

The Rev. Clifford S. Joshua, the Rev. Margaret Joshua and their daughters, Betty and Ruth, were given a farewell reception in the Croton Methodist church Monday evening, prior to their departure to-day for Silver Creek, N. Y., where the Rev. C. S. Joshua will take up his pastoral duties in the Methodist church of that city after serving the congregation as spiritual leader for the past five years. Dr. J. A. Galbraith, pastor of Epworth Methodist church, presided over the program, which was pre-sented to several hundred friends of the Joshua family, who made their farewells in this pleasant manner.

After the congregation had joined in singing, an evening prayer was offered by the Rev. Rees liams, pastor of the First Congrega-tional church. A farewell for the citizens of the city was most ably said in a brilliant manner by Louis B. Round after which Rodney Williams, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Campbell, played a trombone solo.

THE RUSSIAN FIASCO

IT IS now becoming evident that one of the biggest mistakes I in foreign policy which our government has made in recent years was the recognition of Soviet Russia on the assumption that Russia would pay its debts, that our foreign trade would increase and that subversive propaganda in the United States would cease.

It is now generally admitted that we are to be disappointed in all three assumptions, just as millions of patriotic Americans knew that we would be disappointed when the negotiations for Russian recognition were put under way.

The latest news from our State Department is that the negotiations for the settlement of Russian debts to the United discovered recently several large stork-like birds in the shallows of the bay, bordering the Marine Base. of State, is quoted as stating: "We have gone the limit in making of State, is quoted as stating: "We have gone the limit in making concessions on the material questions involved," and he added that "it was not possible to be optimistic that any agreement will be reached."

If American diplomacy had examined Soviet Russia's past

If American diplomacy had examined Soviet Russia's past record carefully, before recognizing her, it would have been distance when his attention was called to the birds. "These appear, found that she had defaulted in her promises to other countries from the black spots, to be wood just as she is now defaulting toward the United States. In each "Normally, the wood ibls dwells and increase its foreign trade with its new "friends." In each and increase its foreign trade with its new "friends." In each on the other side of the Rockies, case there has been disappointment. Now the United States is getting disillusioned in exactly the same way.

Since Russian recognition our trade with that country has numbers." decreased rather than increased, and communistic propaganda in the United States have grown. Now it is becoming evident that Russia is not going to agree to pay its debts. Of course Russia would pay—providing we would lend not the substitution will be pays a tribute to the marine:

But the administration is evidently beginning to awaken to the fact that it has been bunkoed by the soviets and it is announced that the terms set forth for Russia are unreasonable and cannot be accepted. Thus another great idea goes glimmering.

The reds, pinks and hybirds who announced a few months ago that Russian recognition would restore our foreign trade and bring prosperity back to the United States have run for issently have been majority of persons consistently and persons cover. But they will be out again when they think they can sistently have been unwilling personally to prove. Present-day psyhelp put over something else on Uncle Sam.

COURTING AND MARRYING

The claimed discovery of the Scotch scientist, who announced recently that, contrary to popular belief, opposites do not attract each eration apparently does not suffice. other in matters of courting and marrying, seems to put an entirely One must go the limit. new face on the whole institution of matrimony.

According to this savant, we really are attracted in courting and marrying by those who are most like ourselves. If that is true, matrimarrying by those who are most and contains than it has been assumed to terally boast that they played 36 compart through the ages. Humankind's opinion of itself being what it is, holes straight. Others just as foolwhat greater compliment could the average person pay his mate than shy forgetting their limitations, "Fine! L seek the tennis court and indulge to match Now." by marrying him or her, as the case may be? According to the Scotchman's theory, marriage really starts off on a basis of mutual admiration that one of their acquaintances, or even more fundamental and compelling than almost any of us had a friend of a friend of theirs, drops thought was possible.

What we can not understand, however, is why, if the Scotchman is right, marriage was so much more stable an institution in those layender-scented days when the swain was wont to begin the courtship by sire to curb one's sport instinct or groaning to himself and others, "I'm not half good enough for her." even remotely to infer that man no Under the theory of likes attracting likes; he really was setting up the proposition that, "She's not half good enough for me," which would seem to have been a poor foundation for matrimonial alliances that, nevertheless, usually lasted at least until the golden wedding.

However, the scientist may have based his theory on observations confined to his native Scotland, where, we are led to suppose, no thorogoing Scotchman ever took a lass to wife unless assured she was as like him as possible in the value she would place upon a shilling.

THE RUSSIAN FIASCO

T IS now becoming evident that one of the biggest mistakes I in foreign policy which our government has made in recent years was the recognition of Soviet Russia on the assumption that Russia would pay its debts, that our foreign trade would increase and that subversive propaganda in the United States would cease.

It is now generally admitted that we are to be disappointed in all three assumptions, just as millions of patriotic Americans knew that we would be disappointed when the negotiations for Russian recognition were put under way.

The latest news from our State Department is that the negotiations for the settlement of Russian debts to the United discovered recently several large gotiations for the settlement of Russian debts to the officer stock-like birds in the shallows of States have broken down. But the administration is evidently beginning to awaken to the fact that it has been bunkoed by the soviets and it is announced that the terms set forth for Russia are unreasonable and cannot be accepted. Thus another great idea goes glimmering.

COURTING AND MARRYING

The claimed discovery of the Scotch scientist, who announced recently that, contrary to popular belief, opposites do not attract each eration apparently does not suffice. other in matters of courting and marrying, seems to put an entirely One must go the limit. new face on the whole institution of matrimony.

According to this savant, we really are attracted in courting and marrying by those who are most like ourselves. If that is true, matrimony at once seems put on a higher plane than it has been assumed to occupy thruout the ages. Humankind's opinion of itself being what it is, holes straight. Others just as foolwhat greater compliment could the average person pay his mate than by marrying him or her, as the case may be? According to the Scotchman's theory, marriage really starts off on a basis of mutual admiration that one of their acquaintances, or even more fundamental and compelling than almost any of us had a friend of a friend of theirs, drops thought was possible.

What we can not understand, however, is why, if the Scotchman is right, marriage was so much more stable an institution in those lavender-scented days when the swain was wont to begin the courtship by groaning to himself and others, "I'm not half good enough for her." Under the theory of likes attracting likes; he really was setting up the proposition that, "She's not half good enough for me," which would seem to have been a poor foundation for matrimonial alliances that, nevertheless, usually lasted at least until the golden wedding.

And, on the other hand, why all the divorce mills in this present age, when marriage seems to be so largely a matter of mutural condescension and implies, if likes attract likes, the practical ultimate in mu-

However, the scientist may have based his theory on observations confined to his native Scotland, where, we are led to suppose, no thorogoing Scotchman ever took a lass to wife unless assured she was as like him as possible in the value she would place upon a shilling.

A ONE-MAN CURB ON FEDERAL SPENDING

By refusing to approve the use of $15,000,000 of drought relief funds for the vast forest shelter belt in the Plains States until Congress can pass specifically upon such a large undertaking, Controller General McCarl has earned the thanks of the Nation's taxpayers.

In the last eighteen months billions have been tossed about with no Congressional authority whatever except the blanket appropriations. That somebody finally has had the temerity to stop the outflow in at least one direction and to demand that Congress learn what the money is to be used for is good news.

In prohibiting the spending of the $15,000,000 already allotted for the tree belt because he does not regard the project as a direct and immediate drought measure, the Controller comes to grips with no less an authority than President Roosevelt, who issued the Executive order setting aside the money, says the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Controller is in a more fortunate position than was Budget Director Lewis Douglas, who, powerless to check the reckless spending of millions by bureaucratic agencies, quit in disgust. McCarl was appointed to his fifteen-year job by President Harding in 1921, so he is assured of two more years in office no matter how sternly he guards the people's

Bank Robbers Face Sentences

Federal Judge Schoonmaker Will Sentence Two In Avonmore Bank Holdup

(International News Service) ERIE, Pa., Sept. 25—Vance Carter of Vandergrift, Pa., and Joseph Plesarski, New Kensington, were awaiting sentence today following their conviction by a federal court jury of the robbery of the Avonmore

First National bank last June.
The action of the jury in finding the defendants guilty reversed a decision of a Westmoreland criminal court jury, which had acquitted them of the robbery previously. Sentence will be pronounced by federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker later this week.

Carter and Plesarski were accused of robbing the bank of $9,700. Their case was the first prosecution in this district by the federal government under the new act making it a crime to take money in any government-controlled bank by force.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., Sept. 25.—State Trooper John Mehallick, of Leisenring, Pa., went on trial today in the Blair county courthouse here for the alleged murder of Wilbur Vite, on the night of April 22, 1933. Mehallick in civilian clothes had stopped Vito's car and asked to see his driver's cards. As Mehallick ex-amined the cards Vite slipped from the car and ran down the road. Me-hallick fired and Vite was mortally wounded.

The prosecution will not press for first degree murder, but will be sat-isfied to convict the young trooper on homicide or manslaughter.

> You're Wrong If You Believe-That Cyrus McCormick invented the reaper. (This is the 103rd anniversary of the day he is supposed to have invented it.) He didn't. The first successful reaper was the work of a preacher, The Rev. Patrick Bell, Scottish minister, had a reaper in use as early as 1826. He had worked at the making of it since he was a youth on his father's farm.

There had been many trials at achieving such a device before his time both in England and America. Cyrus McCormick's father produced a crude machine, and Cyrus' first reaper, upon which he was given a patent just 100 years ago, was merely an improvement of this.

THE AIR YOU Beathe RUNS YOUR CAR!

Your Car Can't Start until the Gasoline Mixes with AIR!

way, your car gets its life from the air by mixing it with gasoline.

IT'S A FINE DAY-but who knows what change an hour or two will bring in the weather—and in your "gas" mixture?

RAIN OR SHINE, your car performs at its best with Mobilgas in the gas tank. The reason is Mobilgas mixes better with air.

How MANY TIMES—on blistering summer days—have you said, "It's so hot I can't breathe!" The engine in your car might like to say the same thing!

You see, your car is constantly drawing in air all the time it is running. It needs air to make the "gas" that provides the power. And the higher the speed, the more air it requires.

And that same stuffy, oppressive air that you object to has its effect on the way air and gasoline mix to make "gas." But our engineers found that certain preadjustments at the refinery would make Mobilgas mix equally well with all kinds of air. They call this process Climatic Control - and it simply means that Mobilgas mixes better with air.

Climatic Control makes Mobilgas uniform in its performance. Every drop combines properly with the air it meets. There is no more loss of power or pickup through sudden weather changes.

You get smoother, quicker get-away -dependably quick starting-quick response in emergencies-top-notch car performance all of the time instead of some of the time. And that, of course, is what every car owner wants!

Try this gasoline that mixes better with air - any air. Look for the Flying Red Horse and make it a habit to keep your tank filled with Mobilgas.

GARDEN VANDALISM Several cases of vandalism have been reported by local garden owners in recent weeks and police are keeping a sharp lookout for suspects.

A few days ago a youth was arrested and taken to police head-quarters because of a half bushel of green tomatoes in his pockets and inside his shirt. He was using them as amunition in bombarding auto-mobiles and porches.

TRAILER TROUBLE

A Mahoningtown street car was delayed at the Gardner avenue via-duct early Monday afternoon when the huge trailer of a truck blocked its passage. The center pin holding the trailer to the truck "let go" and the job of clearing the trolley tracks was a difficult one.

DOES GOOD TURN

Benny Pelost, of the Mahoning-town Boy Scout Troop, had an op-portunity to do a good turn the other evening and took it unhesitantly. A car owner had locked his keys in his auto and there was no way to unlock the doors. Benny crawled under the car, loosened the floor boards and was able to reach up as far as the inside door handle.

Engle also told of finding groceries that were alleged to have been taken from the Mahoningtown store.

Roxie had a couple of witnesses court, and asked that they might be called before the defense opened, as they had to go back to Pittsburgh Monday evening. Permission was granted.

Edwin Thompson, Billie Reese, Jay Jennings, Russell Wallace, Paul Mc Clenahan, Chas. Sypolt, and Chas. Pinkerton, Union High school. George Lehman, a Pittsburgh policeman, was called and was asked if he knew a man by the name of Anthony Comfort. The witness replied that he did. It had developed in the commonwealth's side of the The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church held an all day case that a man by the name of Comfort owned the store in which meeting at the home of Mrs. Laura Wilson on Friday at noon, Dinner the stolen goods had been found.

Arrest Holdup Slayer Suspect In Pittsburgh

Ohio Youth Is Apprehended At Doorstep Of His Girl Friend

IS RETURNED TO ZANESVILLE, OHIO

Letters To Girl Give Officers Trail That Leads To Youth's Capture

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25.—Arrested on the doorstep of the girl to whom he intended to propose marriage, Russell Swiger, 21, South Zanesville, O., was returned to Zanesville, today to re-enact the murder of Harold Fleming, 19, he allegedly admitted committing. Swiger, a guitar-strumming rome confessed he fatally shot the gaso-line station attendant, police said, after being seized at the home of Miss Grace C. Mitchel, 24, a member of the radio pianist team known as "twenty fingers of sweetness."

Grilled by detectives, the youth allegedly wilted and confessed. While his dreams of happiness and romance crashed, he pleaded:
"I was going to ask her to marry me."

Miss Mitchel admitted knowing Swiger but to her he is "nothing more than a friend."

Letters Reveal Trail
But letters found in a trunk
Swiger carried in his automobile threw a different light on the friendship. Detectives said they found 10 letters written by Miss Mitchel to Swiger, which bore such salutations as "sweet boy of mone," and "my dear boy."

Upon being returned to Zanesville today, authorities said the youth would be asked to re-enact the hold-up and face Charles Stephenson, 20, a friend of the slain youth who wit-nessed the killing. In his reputed confession to police here, Swiger was quoted as saying he used his father's gun and, after the shooting, returned it to the parent's room.

Says Many Strange Things Happened On Luxury Liner Prior To Fire

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Sept. 25— The night watchman who discovered the fire aboard the Morro Castle today related a story of weird activities on the luxury liner the night before the disaster and emphatically declared he believed the fire was the work of incendiarists.

The smell of borbidden gasoline or naptha: a mysterious, character with "wild eyes" skulking outside the writing room where the fire is believed to have started: strange hilarity and screams from the officers quarters: unexplained goings on in two supposedly unoccupied suites—these were the sights and sounds and smells reported by the watchman as the great vesel plowed through the waters toward New York on that last fateful night.

Then the witness, Arthur J. Pender, of Clinton, Mass., told the federal board of inquiry. I believe that explosion I heard had (International News Service) NEW YORK, Sept. 25- The night watchman who discovered the fire aboard the Morro Castle today related a story of weird activities on the luxury liner the night before the disaster and emphatically declared he believed the fire was the work of incendiarists.

The smell of borbidden gasoline or son coupe of Steven Travers, 314 naptha: a mysterious, character Walnut street. It was taken from with "wild eyes" skulking outside the writing room where the fire is believed to have started: strange hilarity and screams from the officers quarters: unexplained goings on in two supposedly unoccupied suites these were the sights and sounds and smells reported by the watchman as the great vesel plowed through the waters toward New York on that last fateful night. Then the witness, Arthur J. Pender, of Clinton, Mass., told the federal board of inquiry. "I believe the vessel was bombed. believe that explosion I heard had some connection with suites 106 and 108. I believe it was incendiary."

The New Castle high team had a the lineup, it is reported. Coach Stephanian always puts out good teams at Charletoi and last year it will be recalled that Char-leroi gave New Castle a great fight and the locals only won 14 to 0. This will be one of the toughest engagements on the local card this year and will bring out what possi-bilities exist for another winning

ILLINOIS

The Champaign fans expect the best team in years and have high hopes of winning the conference title. The backfield appears to be strong enough so the outcome will depend on the line which has yet to prove its ability.

The Illinois backfield quartet The Illinois backfield quartet should have scoring power even against strong teams like Michigan and Army. The teams that deleat Illinois this season will have to get more than one touchdown to do it. Possessing a passing combination that couldn't be stopped last season the Illini this year has power to work along with their major threat. Jack Beynon is the Indians' quarterback and forward passer. Due chiefly to Beynon's passing which as a threat also enhanced the chances of the ball carriers, Illinois was able to score on all 1933 op-ponents except the Army.

One of the halfback posts is sewed up with Les Lindberg again per-forming for the Champaign outfit. Lindberg, a long-legged individual, is a great ball carrier and also the team's kicker.

Ken Meenan would have been the other halfback but the tragic motorcycle death of the Oak Park youth last month puts the position in active coaching at the end of the doubt. the Indians should be very potent Beynon can draw the opponents' defense in with their line smashes and then shoot his deadly passes down the field to ready ends. But that brings us to a major problem—the ends. Both Schustek and Frink, the 1933 flankers, are gone and no outstanding men are available. Bob Wright, a reserve last year, and Cliff Kuhn, a convert ed guard, who hails from Moose-heart, are the most likely candidates. Unless they come through as pass receivers, the Illinois scoring threat will be lost with Beynon' passes just so many downs wasted. There is still some doubt as to who will be the team's center. Tom Eastman, 193, and Elvin Sayre, 176, are the most likely candidates but neither have had any previous varsity experience.

which is fortunate for the In-dians. With only eight games scheduled, Illinois should be able to win five, lose two and tie one. The line is a little too light, as Big Ten lines go, and the reserves are not sufficiently capable of taking care of replacements that shall become necessary as the season advances.

Arrest Holdup Slayer Suspect In Pittsburgh

Ohio Youth Is Apprehended At Doorstep Of His Girl Friend

IS RETURNED TO ZANESVILLE, OHIO

Letters To Girl Give Officers Trail That Leads To Youth's Capture

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25,-Arrested on the doorstep of the girl to whom he intended to propose marriage, Russell Swiger, 21, South Zanesville, O., was returned to Zanesville, today to re-enact the murder of Harold Fleming, 19, he allegedly admitted committing.

Swiger, a guitar-strumming romeo confessed he fatally shot the gasoline station attendant, police said after being seized at the home of Miss Grace C. Mitchel, 24, a member of the radio planist team known as "twenty fingers of sweetness." Grilled by detectives, the youth allegedly wilted and confessed, While his dreams of happiness and ro-mance crashed, he pleaded:

"I was going to ask her to marry me."
Miss Mitchel admitted knowing
Swiger but to her he is "nothing

Letters Reveal Trail But letters found in a trunk Swiger carried in his automobile threw a different light on the friendship. Detectives said they found 10 letters written by Miss Mitchel to Swiger, which bore such salutations as "sweet boy of mone," and "my dear boy."

Following the murder of Fleming during the gasoline station holdup, police sought Swiger at his Zanesville home. When it was learned he had disappeared, the hunt switched to Pittsburgh because of his friendship with Miss Mitchel.

Upon being returned to Zanesville today, authorities said the youth would be asked to re-enact the holdup and face Charles Stephenson, 20 a friend of the slain youth who witnessed the killing.
In his reputed confession to police here, Swiger was quoted as saying he used his father's gun and, after the shooting, returned it to the parent's room.

Detroit Tigers Capture Pennant

New York Yanks Lose To Red Sox As Tigers Remain Idle

MICKEY COCHRANE IS BEING LAUDED

By GENE LAWRENCE International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The miracle which an astonished baseball world has watched take form during the past six months can be viewed in calm retrospect today.

Acons from now when final com-pilation of the great sporting events of all time is made, the feat of the Detroit Tigers in winning their first pennant since 1909 in their first year under the leadership of Mickey Cochrane will rank well among the leaders.

Athletics Win Two

In the only other American league games, the Philadelphia Athletics took a pair of games from the Washington Senators, 5-4, and 3-0. While the New York Giants were idle, the St. Louis Cardinals trounced the Chicago Cubs, 3-1, behind excellent pitching by Bill Walker and thereby reduced the New Yorkers' lead to a mere two games.

The Cards have six more games to play and if they can win them all even though the Giants take their remaining four contests, the two teams will have finished in a tie games. and playoff series will be necessary. The Brooklyn Dodgers, playing out their string, won a pair of games from the Phillies, 5-3 and 10-1.

T. O. M. Sopwith, owner and skipper of the Blue-Hulled British yacht and his crew are frankly incensed over the treatment they have re-ceived at the hands of the Americas' cup committee.

Vanderbilt Best

The master of Endeavour is not the equal of Harold S. Vanderbilt, who skippers Rainbow, as a yacht-man and his amateur crew is manifestly inferior to the American boat's professionals, but there are many who believe that boat for boat Endeavour is a considerably speedier craft.

The usual response to queries regarding the New York Yacht club's race committee action on the protest filed Saturday against the Rainbow, is that, as it was disallowed because Mr. Sopwith was three the state of th hours late in filing it, it would have been much better had the committee announced to him when he filed it that it could not be considered because the red flag of protest had not been hoisted soon enough instead of taking about thirty seven hours to decide on that mere tardiness, without apparently, giving any consideration to the actual details

Council To Ask Works Division To Have Four Projects

Started

Members of council met in special session. Monday afternoon, at the city hall and approved the suggestion of the city engineer, Harry Hoskins, that the city request the Works Division to approve four projects so that men can be provided with employment in the city as soon as the RWD commences operation.

The projects approved for coun-cil call for resumption of work on the Locust street ravine sewer, quarrying of stone in the Marshall quarry in Ray street, construction of a brick sewer in Taylor street and completion of the police radio system. It is proposed to have a receiving set placed in the police patrol or Buick car.
